

PROGRESSIVES PLAN WAR IN THE SENATE

Aggressive Stand on Tariff
Will Be Made at Extra Session.

BILLS TO ORIGINATE WITH DEMOCRATS

Organizations of Financial, Judicial, and Other Committees to Have Much Effect.

Senate progressive Republicans are planning on taking an aggressive stand in the extra session on the question of tariff.

The mere fact that the tariff bills will originate in a Democratic House will not prevent the insurgent Senators from taking a most active part in their consideration when they reach the Senate.

In the special session of Congress beginning March 12, 1911, the insurgent Democrats in the Senate will be practically all the fight over the tariff in that body. Senators Beveridge, Cummins, Dilliver, La Follette, Clapp, Brewster, and Nelson prepared themselves by much study and hard work for assaults on certain features of different schedules, and by sheer force of mastery of their subject, compelled modifications of a number of schedules and stirred up in opposition of sentiment in the country in regard to features of the tariff measure they thought were wrong.

Similar Next Session.

In this extra session a similar situation is likely to be presented. In the last special session few of the Democratic Senators took the pains to go into the different tariff schedules deeply. Unless they do it this time, they will not be prepared to make any such showing as the insurgents will. The numbers of the insurgents now are increased. Thus, there is Senator Dilliver of Washington and Senator Griggs of North Dakota. While Griggs is opposed to the reciprocity agreement, he is a tariff revisionist. Senator Stokes of California will not be identified with the high tariff Republicans. The insurgents will be in position to be more effective than they were in the last tariff session, providing, of course, the Democratic Senators operate as anything like a unit and the insurgents and Democrats can reach common ground on some of the important schedules.

Indications now are that two insurgents will be given places on the Finance Committee. Senators Cummins and La Follette are talked of for this committee.

Another Proposed Plan.

Another plan talked of is for La Follette and Brewster to go on Finance and for Senator Cummins to go on Judiciary. In any event Cummins will not be required to give up the Interstate Commerce Committee, a committee for which he is especially qualified. If two of the insurgents get on the Finance Committee they will be in position to wield much influence. In the first place the committee, which in the last session stood nine Republicans to five Democrats, will be changed. If two insurgents are put on the Finance Committee the Democrats will have control. The new Finance Committee as a matter of fact the Democrats on the Finance Committee are by no means a unit. Senator Bailey leads one element which does not believe in free raw materials. This splits up the Democratic side of the committee and leaves a situation that is about as good as it can be for the high tariff Republicans.

Judiciary Appointments.

If the insurgent strength is increased in the Judiciary Committee that body will probably take to giving more attention to judicial appointments. That is, it has long been insisted by the Senate insurgents that it was time for the Senate to consider seriously the best of mind of men who were appointed to be judges, whether they were progressive or reactionary or what. But no body has really ever stirred up this issue more than to talk about it. It has never actually come to a test on the floor of the Senate. But it is likely to if the insurgents get increased representation on the Judiciary Committee. Insurgents will probably abandon the idea of defeating Pomeroy for chairman of the Finance Committee, but they will insist that in return they must have two members on Finance and that they must be given full treatment as to other big committees.

WILL GIVE CAPITAL CLEANER STREETS

Commissioners to Do Work by Day Labor Instead of by Contract—Hope Soon to Have World's Model City.

After July 1, 1911, the streets of Washington will be cleaner than they ever were before. Their conditions will improve each year until the greatest possible degree of cleanliness is obtained. No serious condition resulting from snow is likely to develop in the future. This is the advantage that will be enjoyed by the District as a result of the provision in the District appropriation bill, authorizing the Commissioners to clean the streets by day labor instead of by contract. The existing street cleaning contract expires July 1, but the Commissioners and the new Superintendent of Street Cleaning Department have already begun to outline plans for doing the work after July 1.

When asked today what the benefits of municipal street cleaning will be, Major W. V. Judson, Engineer Commissioner said:
"The first year of municipal street cleaning will not produce a great saving in actual money expended but it will produce results as good as in practically every year and lay the foundation for better results in the future."

Provides for City Stables.

The appropriation for street cleaning for next year isn't much greater than for the current year. The item for expense for labor, subsistence of horses, repairs to equipment, etc., was $250,000 for the current year. For next year it is $260,000. Next year, however, an additional item of $125,000 for purchase of a site for and construction of new stables is provided. The snow removal appropriation is the same, $100,000.

No difficulty is anticipated from snow, because next winter the District will have thorough street cleaning equipment, which it can use for removing snow. Heretofore, after a heavy snow, the street cleaning contractor merely laid off his force and stopped work, throwing the work of removing snow onto the District, which had no equipment or organization for coping with snow conditions.

Hereafter the District will have machinery and force to turn loose on the snow, but the only expense charged to the snow fund will be for labor; the men employed for street cleaning at other times will be used. Under this arrangement, it is expected $100,000 will be ample to take the city through any winter.

To Buy New Equipment.

The District already owns sixteen street sweeping machines, five tank wagons with rubber rollers, three flush machines, forty sprinklers, and a large number of carts. About $55,000 of the appropriation of $260,000 will be used for purchase of new equipment and improvement of the existing equipment. The degree of cleanliness of the streets will be steadily improved, the ambition of the Commissioners being to earn for Washington the reputation of having the cleanest streets of any city in the world.

Another advantage to the District will be in the existing organization in the Street Cleaning Department. When street cleaning is done by contract it is necessary for the District to employ a supervisory force to see that the contractors meet their obligations. When the District does its own street cleaning, this force will be devoted to actual supervision of the District's own work instead of the work of a contractor. The inspectors, of whom there have been thorough street cleaning equipment, which it can use for removing

"Mother's Boy" Never In Court, Says Judge

A "mother's boy" never has trouble with the juvenile court, Judge William H. De Lacy told the members of the Chorists' Club of St. Paul's Church last night. He warned his hearers against the evils that sometimes result from moving-picture shows.

"Never go to a place where you would not take your mothers," was the advice he gave them.

William Cravelling, president of the club, presided at the meeting last night. The Rt. Rev. Mr. Mackin, the Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, and about thirty members of the club were present.

Preacher's Wife Sues On Grounds of Cruelty

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—Casting imbrago upon his mother-in-law by quoting scriptural texts, wringing chickens' necks in the presence of his shuddering wife, and making her shine his shoes, are among the reasons Mrs. Cora L. Korb advances to show that the Rev. Arno B. Korb is not fit to be her husband or to have the custody of their four-year-old Theodore.

"When he kept quoting, 'The ungodly shall perish,' he meant poor, dear mamma," Mrs. Korb said. In the bill of divorce she filed today she related that neck-wringing was Korb's method of killing the fowls they were to eat, and that he always made her watch him. Once he quoted a text while he was dispatching a chicken.

ELMAN'S PLAYING CHARMS HEARERS

Young Violinist Pleases
Large Audience at the Columbia.

From the opening bars of Lalo's Spanish symphony, through the spirited and pensive movements of Handel's great sonata in D major, to the whimsical, exquisite "Humoresque" of Dvorak, given as a last encore, the genius of the young Russian violinist, Mischa Elman, completely charmed a large audience at the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon.

At the age of nineteen, this youthful artist possesses a flawlessness of technique and a depth of musical feeling which place his recital of yesterday afternoon beyond criticism and leave his critics to marvel at the perfection of his art.

At the close of the Handel sonata the applause of the audience became so insistent that, although Schubert's beloved "Serenade" stood next on the program, Mr. Elman was compelled to give an encore. He played the Kreisler arrangement of Chopin's "La Poulxieuse." The artist's own arrangement of the Schubert "Serenade," followed by Monigny's vivacious "Rag Oryx," by the pensive "Andantino" of Martini, as arranged by Kreisler, and by Kreisler's "Schon Rosmarin," a playful and exquisite number, requiring the greatest delicacy of perception and technique—these formed the group which made the third number on the program. As an encore he played, with wonderful grace and sentiment, a minuet from Beethoven.

Cottent's "Meditation" was one of the most effective numbers on the program, as "I Puppini," by Paganini, was one of the most enjoyable. Though the program closed with the latter number, the audience refused to leave the theater until after the concert had been given, and it was then that Mr. Elman played the "Humoresque" by Dvorak, his technique in this number being as light and graceful as it had been masterful in the symphony and sonata, with which the program opened.

The accompaniments of Percy Kahn greatly enhanced the effectiveness of the program. The concert was given under the direction of Mrs. C. J. C. ARMSTRONG.

The movement inaugurated several months ago for the erection at Rockville of a monument to the Confederate dead of Montgomery county is meeting with success. The committee appointed to solicit subscriptions reported at a meeting held here yesterday that about $1,000 had been collected, and that the remainder of the $5,000 desired would be raised in time to erect the monument the coming summer.

In the circuit court here, yesterday afternoon, Judge Edward C. Peter signed an order committing to the custody of Benjamin W. McGaha, of Washington, his fifteen-year-old sister, Sophia McGaha, Hattie and Elizabeth McGaha, sisters of the girl, petitioned the court to take the child from her father.

He supplemented his lecture with stereoscopic pictures of modern European roads.

BANK IN ANACOSTIA HAS RAPID GROWTH

Institution Gains $20,000
Deposits in Two Months.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU, ANACOSTIA, D. C., MARCH 11. The progress of the Anacostia Bank, the only financial institution in this section of the District, has been followed with much interest since it passed into the control of local business men a little more than six months ago, and the statement filed today by Maurice Osterback, the manager of the bank, in response to the call of the Comptroller of the Currency, aroused favorable comment.

The report indicated that since the last call, two months ago, the bank has gained $20,000 in deposits, bringing the total amount of deposits up to $140,000. This amount represents almost exclusively the savings of people in the Anacostia district, and surprise has been occasioned in banking circles in the city over the remarkable growth of the local financial establishment.

Its statement is published elsewhere in The Times. There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the bank in Anacostia on Monday evening next.

The death of Mrs. Nora Edelen, who was the mother of a number of well-known people in this place, is reported from near Placerville, Prince George's county, Md., after a brief illness. Mrs. Edelen was sixty-eight years old, and was the widow of Robert Edelen. She died at the residence of James M. Edelen, a son, from whose home the funeral was held.

The burial was made in the cemetery of St. Mary's Catholic Church. Mrs. Edelen was the mother of Mrs. T. De Bayles Moran, of the Government Hospital, John S. Edelen, of the same institution, and Mrs. Rena Wood, George R. Edelen, a stepson, lives in Pleasant street, Anacostia.

The girls of the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church are organizing a basketball team, which will take its turn at contests in Methodist hall, in Fourteenth street, on each Wednesday evening. It having been decided to devote this night to the girls composing the team and those of their associates who desire to witness the games. Already the men and the boys of the church occupy the hall at regular periods for basketball games. The married men of the church are twice secured victories over their bachelor opponents, each time by decisive figures, and they will play another game on Monday evening next.

The efforts upon the part of the citizens of Anacostia to keep the streets of the town clean have been interfered with of late through the littering up of the avenues of travel with waste paper, blown about the streets from the points where filling-in operations are in progress on the bank of the Eastern branch. The attention of the superintendent of the Street Cleaning Department was called to the situation and he designated the chief inspector to come over and view the conditions. As a result directions have been issued that a way must be found to prevent the litter from being carried about the street by the wind.

Harmony Lodge, No. 9, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Washington, with Thomas J. Gates, the grand master, at its head, is arranging to visit Salem Lodge, No. 23, of Anacostia, for the purpose of conducting the second degree. Two candidates will be presented. SCROFULA HEREDITARY BLOOD POISON

Scrofula is a disease manifested usually by a swelling and ulceration of the glands, especially about the neck. It is almost entirely hereditary in its origin, being the dregs or remains of some specific blood poison. Where the blood is greatly weakened with the scrofulous poison, the disease attacks other portions of the system besides the glands, and then we see its effects in weak eyes, poorly developed bodies, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, especially on the scalp, catarrhal troubles, etc. Scrofula usually makes its appearance in childhood, though manhood or womanhood may be reached before the poison progresses to the stage of outward manifestation. S. S. S. is the one real cure for Scrofula. It is a blood purifier without an equal, and it cures this destructive blood poison by removing every trace of the infection from the circulation. S. S. S., in addition to cleansing and purifying the blood, assists the stomach and digestive members in the creation of new blood corpuscles and other nourishing matter for the circulation.

S. S. S. increases the resistive powers of the system and by strengthening and building up the vitality, allows nature to make a perfect cure. Book describing the disease and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

There is only one soap it's wise to use for washing clothes in Winter and that is Fels-Naptha.

Of course you can use others—if you don't mind hard work, the nauseous steam from boiling and hot suds, chapped hands and the danger of catching a nasty cold.

If you want to avoid these, use Fels-Naptha in lukewarm water. No boiling. No hard rubbing.

Here are directions for washing the white things:

Wet the white clothes in lukewarm water, soap well with Fels-Naptha, let stand for about thirty minutes in lukewarm water. Rub lightly, rinse, blue and hang up to dry.

Other washing just as easy—colored clothes and flannels and woollens.

Your clothes will be cleaner, whiter, sweeter than if boiled till Doomsday.

And think of the comfort and lightening of your work!

All that's necessary is to get a cake of Fels-Naptha and follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

Anty Drudge's Message.

"To every woman who washes clothes:

Tell me your washday troubles. My mission in life is to do away with washday drudgery. I've helped thousands of women to lighten their work and make life happier, and I'll gladly help you.
